My favourite festival – Erisha Singh

Every autumn I go to stay with my cousins in Leicester so we can all celebrate Diwali together. My family are Hindus, our grandparents came to Britain from India. Diwali is the biggest Hindu festival and people celebrate it all over the world. We come to Leicester because it has one of the largest Hindu populations in the UK and the celebrations are fantastic.

Diwali is a magical time for children because of the lights. We light candles and lamps called divas in our homes, especially in the windows. All the streets, houses and shops are decorated with light. Diwali comes from the Sanskrit word Deepavali which means ‘rows of lights’. It is our festival of Light and starts the Hindu year. If we light our house well, we will have good fortune because the Goddess of wealth and prosperity, Lakshmi, will see our lights.

At Diwali we tell the legend of the Hindu god, Lord Rama. He had a beautiful wife called Sita and she was captured by the demon king Ravana. Lord Rama fought the demon king and rescued his wife. We celebrate Rama's return with his wife. It signifies that good triumphs over evil. People light their lamps to celebrate the god Rama's victory.

On the first day of Diwali I walk to the temple in the next street with all my family. We always dress in our best clothes. My grandmother makes me a new Indian sari to wear for Diwali every year. We spend a long time getting ready, putting on bright clothes and jewellery. Lots of our friends come to the temple and we sing, dance and enjoy ourselves. My cousin plays an Indian instrument called a harmonium at the temple. There are always delicious sweet foods to eat. This starts five days of celebrations, my favourite five days of the year.

Back at my uncle's house we exchange presents and eat lots of good Indian food. Many more relatives come over to celebrate with us and it is a very special time for families. If anyone has had an argument it is a good time to make friends and forget the past. Some people say that it is a sort of Christmas for Hindus.

In Leicester the Asian community is very proud of their celebrations. In fact, the city's Diwali celebration is one of the biggest outside of India. There are very big crowds with music, dancing and fireworks. 6,500 Diwali lights are switched on in the streets and we have a big party in the streets on Diwali day. This happens every year in October or November.
