

Where do you shop?

I love going to the local market. The colours are amazing! There are so many colours from the fruit and vegetables and all the different textiles. And then there are all the different spices that smell so nice. When I visit the market, I see, smell, taste, feel and hear so many things that make me happy. The food is fresh and local, and so delicious!

I really like going to the big shopping centre. My friends and I are always excited because there are so many shops and places to eat. There are so many people – like families, groups of teenagers, older people. There's something for everyone. I like the fashion shops because I love finding new ways to look good!

In the UK, we have lots of charity shops. They are sometimes called second-hand shops because people give clothes that they don't wear any more, and other people can buy them. People can give books or furniture they don't use any more as well. I prefer shopping there because I find unusual clothes and cool accessories like belts and bags for a good price. I can buy awesome clothes AND it helps reduce waste.
