Australian Volun	teers International (AVI)
Location	Various countries across Africa, Asia, the Pacific and the Middle East, Latin America and the Caribbean
Entry criteria	Candidates for the Australian Volunteers for International Development programme must be:
	 An Australian citizen, an Australian permanent resident OR a New Zealand citizen resident in Australia
	■ At least 18 (no upper age limit)
	Most assignments require a professional qualification and relevant work experience – usually two years or more.
	Candidates need to receive child protection clearance and undertake compliance with the AVI Code of Conduct.
	Candidates must possess the following qualities:
	 A desire to help build the capability and skills of others
	■ Respect for different cultures
	■ A willingness to listen to and learn from other people
	■ The ability to adapt to changing situations
	Resourcefulness and tolerance
	Candidates must possess the following personal competencies:
	■ Integrity
	Ability to manage stress
	Self-reliance and self-confidence
	■ Self-awareness
	■ Resilience
	■ Cross-cultural sensitivity
	Ability to work with and develop others
	■ Flexibility
	Ability to problem-solve
	Achievement oriented
	Other requirements are assignment and role specific.

Selection process

Quarterly Information Sessions are held in most capital cities throughout Australia (pre-register on website to attend).

Assignments are advertised on a quarterly basis on the AVI website, usually for a period of three weeks. Candidates who register as a member are emailed when new jobs become available. Detailed Assignment Descriptions accompany adverts and include selection criteria.

A written application, comprising a Response to the Selection Criteria and a CV should be uploaded on the website in direct response to individual advertisements.

Applicants receive advice on the progress of the application within three weeks from the close of applications date.

Applicants shortlisted for interviews are contacted prior to interview by a Recruitment Consultant to establish availability, commitment, relationships, motivation for applying, financial obligations.

Unsuccessful candidates are also informed and/or alternative options are discussed.

The first interview is a structured, behavioural 90-minute telephone or face-to-face interview with a Recruitment Consultant. Following this, the candidate is asked to carry out in-depth research to ensure they are fully aware of the issues, risks and challenges they will face in post. AVI provides country and security notes, and possibly also contact details of relevant volunteers.

Applicants need:

- Health clearance, i.e. general, mental, dental health and vaccination protection (AVI provides assistance and contributes to costs.) (It is possible to proceed with pre-existing or non-stable medical conditions; in this case a Health Management plan needs to be prepared and approved by AVI.)
- Police clearance
- First-aid training, equivalent to the Australian standardised 'Apply First Aid' certificate HLTFA311A, to be completed within three years of the start date of the assignment

The second Interview is conducted face to face or via an online video link with an AVI Recruitment Consultant to assess personal competencies, commitment, child protection awareness and relationship issues, in addition to informed knowledge of the risks and constraints, as based on the applicant's research.

At this point verbal or, if not possible, written references are checked.

Successful applicants receive a conditional offer.

If the offer is accepted, AVI forwards information regarding visa application and administrative forms. If appropriate, contact is facilitated with the relevant Country Manager or overseas employer.

Candidates must satisfactorily complete a pre-departure briefing (see below).

A written confirmation of the offer is sent out to successful candidates. There is usually a period of at least four weeks' notice before departure.

The process from advertisement of post to departure on assignment generally takes 20 to 22 weeks.

AVI Recruitment Consultants can be contacted at any time to assist with the application process.

Length of contract

Usually 12–24 months. Optimum length of assignments is 24 months; some assignments may have the flexibility to be shortened or divided into a series of shorter assignments.

Possibility for renewal

Unspecified

Early termination

Volunteer may be liable to refund all expenses.

Emergencies and changes in circumstances are dealt with on a case-by-case basis.

Benefits	AVI covers the costs of:
	Medical clearance (bar dental)
	■ Return airfares
	■ Visas
	Medical insurance
	Living allowance
	■ Accommodation
	Post-assignment medical (if completed within six months of assignment end)
	If the assignment is seven months or longer in duration, AVI provides a settling-in allowance and a resettlement allowance.
Outlay	Volunteers cover the costs of:
	Dental pre-departure clearance
	 Any ongoing health management of pre-existing or non-stable medical conditions, as approved by AVI
	■ First-aid training
Role/ responsibilities	Volunteers are expected to pass on skills to the staff of their host organisations, and to work in advisory and training roles.
	Volunteers have a detailed assignment description with set objectives. The volunteer and their employer develop a work plan to meet the objectives. AVI holds regular review sessions with the volunteer and employer to receive feedback on the progress of the volunteer's assignment and how the benefits can be sustained.
Contact hours	Assignment specific
Induction	There is a three-day Compulsory Pre-Departure Briefing (usually in Melbourne), based on adult learning principles relating to the country and culture of assignment, international aid and development issues, personal safety and health, and general volunteering matters. This also provides an opportunity to meet with assignment country nationals and returned volunteers.
	Pre-reading is sent out.
	Acceptance into the programme is conditional on successful completion of the briefing, including successful application of pre-reading and research and demonstration of personal competencies.
	On arrival in country, volunteers participate in an In-Country Orientation, Security Briefing and cultural and language preparation.
Training	Volunteers receive increasing amounts of information from the time they apply to the time they begin their assignment, including detailed country notes and reading material. Volunteers are also expected to undertake their own research and exploration of issues and strategies to ensure success in all aspects of their assignment.
	In some countries formal language training is provided as part of the In-Country Orientation. In some programmes there are grants available for further language tuition.
Mentoring/ support	Volunteers arrive as a group and are met by the Country Office staff and introduced to their Host Organisation. Assistance with any housing or local orientation is shared between the Country
	Office and the Host Organisation. There are regular review sessions of the progress of the volunteer's assignment with AVI and the Medical	Medical insurance is covered by AVI.

	AVI organises a pre-departure consultation with a doctor and travel medicine specialist who can give more information and guidance on how to stay healthy while on assignment.
	AVI works with an agency that can organise 24-hour medical assistance. All AVI volunteers receive an emergency card with the agency's telephone number prior to departure.
	In most cases, volunteers will need to pay medical expenses up front, but will recover the costs after submitting a claim form to the insurance providers.
Insurance	Provided by AVI
Other support	The AVI Country Manager is the primary contact, whether in the country or based in Australia.
	There are AVI offices in many countries and partnerships with local organisations to ensure on-the-ground support if needed.
	Other AVI volunteers can also provide support.
	On re-entry, support is provided in the form of post-assignment debrief workshops, review meetings and social functions with other returning volunteers. Returning volunteers also have access to three hours of confidential counselling services for up to 12 months from the end of their assignment.
Holidays	Usually the same leave allowances as local employees

British Council English Language Assistants
Location	Asia: China Europe: Austria, Belgium, France, Germany, Italy, Spain, Switzerland Latin America: Argentina, Chile, Colombia, Ecuador, Mexico North America: Canada (Québec)
Entry criteria	Candidates must:
	■ Be a native-level English speaker (assessed on the quality of written application, university reference, educational background and telephone or face-to-face interview if necessary)
	■ Have completed secondary education in the UK (or hold a UK passport if all their secondary education was completed abroad) and have at least two years' higher education by the start of the post (i.e. be a student who has completed their second or final year of university or a recent graduate). Candidates who completed their secondary education in Ireland are eligible as long as they are studying at a UK university at the time of application.
	■ Be flexible regarding post preference
	■ Not have lived in the country they are applying to for 12 months (unless they are applying for a consecutive year)
	■ Be able and willing to complete the full period of appointment
	■ Be able to apply for an International Child Protection Certificate (ICPC)
	■ Be aged 30 or under (35 and under in France)
	■ Hold an AS level/Higher Grade or equivalent in the language of the host country (excluding China)
	See website for country-specific requirements.
	In some countries, priority is given to language undergraduates seeking to fulfil the requirement for a compulsory year abroad.

Selection Once applicants have registered online they receive an automated email with details of the next process steps in the application process, a checklist of the supporting documents that need to be included in the application and Guidance Notes. Shortlisted candidates for some countries (Canada, China, Latin America and Switzerland) are invited to an assessment day, consisting of group-based activities in the morning and individual interviews in the afternoon. The morning session tests: ■ Presentation and communication skills ■ Lesson planning ■ Ideas for material/resources ■ Knowledge of UK contemporary culture ■ Contributions to group discussion ■ Potential to motivate and enthuse students Ability to think on feet ■ Taking initiative ■ Enthusiasm ■ Leadership qualities The interviews are likely to touch on issues related to: ■ Motivation to be an English language assistant ■ Understanding and awareness of cultural difference ■ Coping with challenging aspects of living in first-choice country ■ How other work experience may relate to being an assistant ■ How the candidate plans to build a social life outside the school/university in which they will work. Candidates applying to Canada, Latin America or Switzerland will also be asked a few informal questions in the foreign language concerned. For all other countries, some candidates may be assessed by telephone interview where areas of their application need to be followed up. Length of Usually one academic year. Dates vary by country. contract Possibility for Yes, up to three separate times, regardless of whether the posts were in the same or different renewal countries and whether they were in consecutive or non-consecutive years. (In some countries, priority is given to first-time applicants.) Early Sufficient written notice must be given to the school (usually one month), with copies sent to the termination partner organisation, the British Council in the UK and the Language Assistant's university if they are on their year abroad. Institution Secondary, primary, vocational or state language school or university - varies by country Outlay Volunteers cover the cost of: ■ Travel to and from assessment day if there is one ■ Cost of International Child Protection Certificate (ICPC) ■ Cost of travel to and from British Council pre-departure briefing (if there is one) ■ Cost of travel to and from your post (China – will be reimbursed on completion of contract) ■ Travel insurance Medical insurance Visas and travel to and from visa appointments Any necessary inoculations and medical checks Accommodation in the country (except China)

Role/ responsibilities	Support the English teacher by planning activities, texts, role plays and games using textbooks, newspaper/magazine articles, photos, pictures, maps, CDs, videos, DVDs or any other media to enable students to practise their English.
	In China, Latin America or Switzerland Language Assistants often have to teach whole classes.
	Assistants in other countries take small conversation groups or team teach with the class teacher. They are the main resource for native speaker reading, pronunciation, dictation and speaking.
	Language assistants should not have to:
	Discipline pupils regularly
	■ Mark work
	■ Teach other subjects
	■ Work extra hours unpaid
	■ Cover for illness
	■ Be responsible for the overall curriculum.
Contact hours	12–20 hours a week
Induction	Varies by country. Ranges from one day (Switzerland) to two weeks (assessed) in China.
Training	The British Council helps with lesson planning.
	There is a Language Assistants manual that complements the website (link sent prior to departure).
	The local British Council office can be contacted for ideas regarding materials and cultural activities.
Mentoring/	The school appoints a teacher to be the Assistant's mentor.
support	There are two online mentors on the Discussion list on the Language Assistant site; newly appointed Language Assistants are automatically subscribed to the e-group list and receive the emails of other assistants appointed to the same country.
Management structure	The employer is the education authority, school or university where the Language Assistant will be working, not the British Council.
Accommodation	Not every school provides accommodation. The school should be able to offer advice, but Language Assistants should be prepared to make their own arrangements.
	Schools in Canada or Latin America will almost certainly provide at least temporary accommodation. In China accommodation is usually provided on or near campus.
Medical	For EU countries, Language Assistants need to obtain a European Health Insurance card (EHIC) to cover emergency healthcare.
	In Austria, France and Germany, a contribution to the national social security system is automatically paid from the Language Assistant's salary so there is no need for extra medical insurance.
	In Spain, Language Assistants have student status, so there are no social security payments and an EHIC is necessary.
	In Italy, Language Assistants' status is that of semi-student/worker and an EHIC is necessary.
	For Belgium, China, Latin America or Senegal, it is advised to take out fully comprehensive medical insurance, including repatriation coverage.
	In Canada, Language Assistants are covered by the Quebec national insurance plan after 90 days for some medical expenses, but NOT if travelling outside Quebec.
	For Switzerland, Language Assistants are advised to take out a UK medical policy for the first few days and then take out a local policy.
Insurance	Language Assistants are advised to take out travel insurance and an additional policy to cover all possessions, if not covered.
Other support	Assistants are advised to solve problems locally, using the existing infrastructure (mentor, head of department, representative at the local authority, partner organisation in-country, British Council UK).
Holidays	Appointments are made for the academic year. (There are different academic terms in Latin America.)

CfBT (Brunei)
Location	Brunei Darussalam
Entry criteria	Candidates must have:
	■ A degree from a university in Australia, Canada, Ireland, New Zealand, United Kingdom, South Africa, preferably in English/Linguistics/Humanities (Graduates with a degree from South Africa are eligible for secondary, but not primary, school positions.)
	 Qualified teacher status/teacher accreditation (PGCE, BEd, DipT, etc.)
	Minimum three years' relevant classroom teaching experience post qualification. Additional EFL/ESL training/experience is preferable but not essential.
	Candidates must be under 52 years old for primary teachers and under 55 years old for secondary teachers.
Selection process	Apply online directly for positions advertised by CfBT. The main intake is currently in January.
Length of contract	Initial contracts are generally for two years.
Possibility for renewal	Yes. Average length of stay is 7.7 years.
Early termination	Information not available
Institution	Primary schools, secondary schools and pre-university colleges.
Benefits	■ Spacious furnished accommodation
	Return airfares and baggage allowance
	 Annual flight allowances for renewing teachers
	 Heavily subsidised private education for up to two children in Brunei at schools approved by CfBT (ages 5–18) or three children for teaching couples
	Allowances for accompanying spouse and up to three children until they start primary school
	Malay language and IT training
	Interest-free car loanSubsidised private group health insurance scheme plus free government health care for children under 12 and pregnant women
	Settling-in Allowance per teacher and up to two accompanying children
Outlay	See medical insurance.
Role/ responsibilities	Carry out normal teaching and related administrative duties to result in improving the proficiency of students and exam results. Duties are also likely to include extra-curricular activities (e.g. sports clubs, school magazine, etc.), extra classes for exam years and staff meetings. A small number of CfBT teachers teach literature.
	A small number of schools require teachers to be on evening duty once or twice a month to supervise students in hostels.
Contact hours	Typically about 12–16 contact hours a week. Additionally, secondary teachers are required to stay in school for an extra 4.5 hours (typically three afternoons) a week and primary teachers for three hours up to twice a week for extension activities and clubs.
	A typical school day runs from 7.15 a.m. to 12.30 p.m. Some schools run a double shift (7.30 a.m.–12.30 p.m, then 12.30 p.m.–5.30 p.m.) and teachers will only work one of those shifts.
	Occasionally, teachers are expected to attend events falling on Fridays, Sundays or declared national holidays.
Induction	A comprehensive recruitment video site provides information on a range of issues.
	As part of a pre-induction programme, managers are in touch with teachers during the period preceding travel.
	There is a comprehensive two-week-plus induction programme in the Brunei capital, comprising modules relating to customs and culture, professional modules (e.g. curriculum, expectations, etc.), practical modules (e.g. internet connection, banking, housing, etc.). There is also a smaller strand relating to professional development.

Training	There is a transcripted professional development programme, Teaching Plus; the induction programme constitutes part of this.
	Teachers (both CfBT and local) can take the Cambridge ICELT (In-service Certificate of Teaching English) and/or participate in CfBT SCOPE (O-Level upper secondary), IGCSE (upper secondary) and LSERP (lower secondary) training programmes.
	There are fortnightly primary teacher workshops and sharing sessions around the country.
	A CfBT CPD DVD series, Magic Moments, is distributed to all English departments.
Mentoring/ support	There is a mentoring scheme wherein newly appointed teachers are buddied up with an expatriate teacher already in Brunei. (There can be a number of teachers in a single secondary school, though usually only one in primary schools.)
	CfBT staff in the Professional Department support teachers and can liaise with headteachers, principals and the Ministry of Education. ELT Managers spend substantial time with newly recruited teachers both in the office and in schools and subsequently visit schools regularly throughout the year. Additional support is provided by CfBT-identified experienced Lead Teachers.
	Teachers are provided with materials to supplement those available in school, on an individual or school basis, or can borrow from the CfBT Education Centre in each district. Education Centres also have photocopying and computer facilities for the use of teachers.
	Teachers receive a monthly CfBT newsletter.
	Meetings are held in each district throughout the year to allow teachers to put questions to senior managers.
Management structure	Secondary schools are run by Principals, assisted by two Deputy Principals. Below that there is a hierarchy of Senior Teachers, Heads of Departments, etc. In primary schools there is a Head Teacher who is usually (depending on the size of the school) assisted by a Deputy. (Some CfBT teachers are Heads of Department in secondary schools or hold other administrative roles, but on the whole there is limited possibility of career progression in an individual school.)
	CfBT Project Managers manage 30–40 teachers each and visit schools weekly or fortnightly to provide support.
Accommodation	Temporary housing is provided upon arrival by the CfBT's Housing Department. They then work with teachers to find appropriate accommodation.
	Housing is generally relatively spacious and of a good standard; the majority of teachers live in large detached houses with a garden.
	Following their first contract, teachers are at liberty to look for lower-priced accommodation and keep the difference in the housing allowance if that is their preference.
Medical	Teachers and dependants aged 12 and above receive treatment at a nominal cost in government clinics. Government healthcare for children under 12 and pregnant women is free.
	CfBT provides a comprehensive insurance policy, which teachers must take out; this covers private medical treatment in Singapore or elsewhere (not North America) and is subsidised by CfBT.
Insurance	Several major international companies are represented in Brunei. House contents insurance and car insurance is reasonably inexpensive.
Other support	Practical assistance for teachers and families is provided by 30 support staff in CfBT offices in Brunei.
Holidays	Schools are closed on Fridays and Sundays, with Saturday being a working day.
	The school year is split into approximately equal terms, with a ten- or 14-day holiday between each term and a longer 4–5-week holiday in December. There are also a good number of public holidays. Teachers are normally free to take leave during the school holidays with the approval of the Ministry of Education.
	CfBT can approve up to ten days compassionate leave in the case of extraordinary family emergency or bereavement.

Entry criteria	Candidates must: Be residents of Canada or the United States (Some programmes are limited to Canadian residents and some to American residents.) Have a recognised qualification; for example, a degree Have a minimum of two to five years of professional experience in a relevant field Be willing to work for a modest local salary and to live in conditions similar to those of local colleagues Be prepared to invest time in self-briefing and training before going to their placement Be willing to learn the basics of the local language of where they'll be working. Candidates should possess the required personal qualities: Self-assurance Flexibility and adaptability A flair for solving problems The ability to work in a team Sensitivity to the needs of others A desire to learn and help others learn A positive and realistic commitment to volunteering Candidates are also required to obtain medical and criminal records clearances and successfully complete an assessment day. Volunteers should function at a Level 3 of 4 ability in French or Spanish on the Cuso International Language Scale in countries where these languages are required. Preference will be given to
Selection process	candidates who fulfil language requirements at this level. Apply online at website, including a CV, personal statement, and three references (one personal, two professional). Applications are assessed within four to six weeks and successful applicants at this point undergo a preliminary phone interview. If shortlisted, applicants attend an assessment day. If successful and following approval from the Partner Organisation, volunteers can proceed to pre-departure training and orientation.
Length of contract Possibility for	One to two years, with limited short-term (three- to six-month) placements available for specialised placements or volunteers with significant experience. Yes. There is a modified application process determined on a case-to-case basis.
Early termination	Cuso International reserves the right to reclaim costs of medical training, pre-departure training and any preparation payments if a volunteer withdraws pre-departure. Volunteers ending their placement before completing 75 per cent of the planned period are offered a single direct flight home. If at least 75 per cent of the placement period is completed on termination, volunteers may receive cash in lieu of a post-placement flight – but not if the placement is terminated for disciplinary or health reasons; in those cases the volunteer may be required to fly by a fixed date if the at the expense of Cuso International.
Institution	Various – from community to national level

Benefits	 Attendance at a Cuso International assessment day (some of the cost to be covered by candidates – see below)
	■ Travel and accommodation costs associated with five-day pre-departure training course held in Ottawa
	Return airfare and visa/permit (this includes a return flight in the case of a family emergency)
	Coverage for required vaccinations, medications and health insurance
	■ Accommodation while overseas
	 Quarterly payments to support candidates in their placement
	 Modest support for accompanying partners
Outlay	Candidates are expected to cover a portion of the most cost-effective travel expenses and accommodation costs related to their attendance at a Cuso International assessment day.
	Volunteers cover the cost of a pre-departure dental check-up and treatment (for placements of six months or longer).
	All volunteers are encouraged to fundraise in support of Cuso International's programmes, with a suggested fundraising goal for each volunteer placement. Training, support and resources to help reach fundraising goals are provided.
Role/ responsibilities	Education volunteers work with colleagues locally, helping them to improve their teaching and leadership methodologies and practices. Roles include: primary teacher trainers, education leadership advisers and English teacher trainers.
	Volunteers' roles often change as the placement evolves and working relationships develop.
Contact hours	Established with the local employer
Induction	Pre-departure training – a minimum of 15 hours of self-directed activity via an online learning environment and a five-day face-to-face training course in Ottawa once matched to a placement.
	Issues explored include topics related to personal preparation, health and security, the role of values and behaviours in intercultural settings, the broader development context, as well as practical skills and attitudes needed during placements.
Training	In-country training on arrival, focusing on information specific to the country and region of placement. Topics can include health, safety and security, language training, cultural orientation and development issues.
Mentoring/ support	Volunteers are met on arrival in country by the Cuso or VSO country programme office. The country programme office organises further training and can provide support with any major personal, medical or security problems. Volunteers on a two-year placement receive a placement visit from a member of the programme office staff during their initial six months in placement, and an additional visit midway through their placement. In terms of their daily work, volunteers report directly to a local employer, i.e. Cuso International's local partner organisation, and are expected to approach the employer as a first contact.
Management structure	During their placements volunteers are employed by the partner organisation in the country where they work.
Accommodation	Provided by the local employer. Varies depending on the location of the placement.
	Some volunteers are asked to share accommodation with other Cuso International volunteers.
Medical	All volunteers and their accompanying dependants are covered for medical expenses arising from accidents or ill health while overseas and for up to three months upon their return to North America after their placement is complete (but not if the volunteer chooses to travel immediately following their placement and before returning home).
	Medical insurance covers any necessary medical treatment and medication prescribed by a qualified medical practitioner, including essential evacuation and related expenses in the case of a medical emergency.
	In-country programme office staff can advise on medical facilities in the area and are also able to provide advice and make arrangements for appropriate care.

Insurance	Volunteers and their accompanying dependants are covered for medical expenses (see above).
	Volunteers are responsible for insuring their personal items and are strongly advised to take out any personal effects insurance before departure.
	The medical and personal accident insurance covers volunteers at all times, including when driving a vehicle, operating a motorcycle or travelling as a pillion passenger. Volunteers are also automatically covered for third party liability if driving vehicles provided by Cuso International.
Other support	Handbooks:
	■ Cuso International Volunteer Handbook
	Cuso International Health and Security Briefing Materials
	■ Child Protection Code of Conduct
	Placement and Country Briefing Information
	Reintegration workshop at Cuso International's training centre in Ottawa, usually scheduled three to 12 months after volunteers return from their placement. Access to an Employee Assistance programme for up to six months after the end of their placement.
Holidays	A minimum of three working weeks' paid leave per year (one week for short-term specialist assignments) or the same amount as local colleagues, whichever is greater, with details to be established with the employer.

Fulbright English Teaching Assistant (ETA) Location Approximately 70 countries worldwide (Fulbright ETAs are posted outside capital cities and are integrated into the host community, which is often an area with limited access and exposure to native English speakers.) Entry criteria Applicants must: ■ Be US citizens at the time of application, have a conferred Bachelor's degree or the equivalent before the start of the grant and be in good health. Grantees will be required to submit a satisfactory Medical Certificate from a physician. ■ Have sufficient proficiency in the written and spoken language of the host country sufficient to communicate with the people and to carry out the project. Requirements regarding language proficiency vary by country. Preferred qualifications: Applicants who have not previously held a Fulbright grant ■ Applicants whose higher education was undertaken primarily at educational institutions in the United States. Foreign study during the junior year or other periods of undergraduate study that are integral parts of the curricula of American institutions will not be considered a disadvantage. ■ Candidates who have not resided or studied in the country to which they are applying for more than six months, not counting undergraduate study abroad or duty abroad in the Armed Forces of the United States The following are not eligible for the programme: ■ Applicants holding a doctoral degree at the time of application ■ Applicants seeking enrolment in a medical degree programme abroad Anyone who has resided abroad for five or more consecutive years in the six-year period preceding the date of application ■ Employees of the US Department of State, and their immediate families, for a period ending one year following termination of such employment ■ Employees of private and public agencies (excluding educational institutions) under contract to the US Department of State to perform services related to exchange programmes, for a period ending one year following the termination of their services ■ In some cases it may not be possible for a dual national to participate in a Fulbright programme in the country of his or her other nationality due to host country law or policy Experience or training in teaching may be required or strongly preferred for placements in some countries but not in others.

Selection Candidates currently enrolled in an undergraduate or graduate programme at a US college or process university are required to apply through that institution, even if they are not currently resident there. Candidates who are not currently enrolled may apply through their alma mater if the institution is willing and able to accommodate alumni applications. All other candidates apply as At-Large applicants from their states of permanent residence, even if they are currently overseas. Candidates apply to a single individual country's ETA programme, but do not choose where in the country they are placed. Fulbright events and online applications open in May. The Fulbright Programme Adviser (FPA) sets a campus application deadline for the institution's students, which is typically four to six weeks earlier than the final October deadline. All candidates applying through a US institution must submit the Fulbright application through the Embark online application system, including all supporting materials, by the campus deadline. Supporting documents include a one-page Statement of Grant Purpose, a one-page Personal Statement, a Language Self Evaluation and a Foreign Language Evaluation Form completed by a professional language teacher, references, and transcripts from all undergraduate and graduate institutions from which the candidate received degrees. Once the application has been submitted for institutional review, the Fulbright Programme Adviser will schedule campus interviews for candidates. Following the interview and before the final deadline in October, there may be the opportunity for candidates to revise their application based on feedback provided by the Fulbright Programme Adviser and the campus interview committee. At-Large candidates must submit their applications through the Embark online application system by the deadline, ensuring that all supporting documents are attached to the online application. At the end of January, candidates are notified by email as to whether their applications have been recommended for final consideration. Between the beginning of March and the end of May, candidates are notified whether they have been selected for an award, designated as alternates or non-selected. Departure dates correspond to the academic calendars abroad and vary by country. Length of Usually 9–12 months. The grant period corresponds to the academic year in the host country. contract Possibility for Extension or renewal may be possible depending on the availability of funds and on the renewal justification of the need for the longer term. Candidates must apply directly to the supervisory agency in the host country after the start of the grant. Early A grantee who leaves the host country or resigns at an earlier date than that specified in the grant termination authorisation may be required to reimburse the supervising agency for any expenditures made on his or her behalf, including allowances for orientation or round-trip travel. Institution Host institutions vary by country and range from elementary and secondary schools to universitylevel language departments. Benefits ■ Round-trip economy-class transportation to the host country ■ Funding to cover room, board, and incidental costs, based on the cost of living in the host Accident and sickness health benefits Some countries may also include: ■ Book and research allowances ■ Mid-term enrichment activities ■ Full or partial tuition ■ Language study programmes ■ Pre-departure and in-country orientations

Expenses related to attendance at any orientation programmes conducted in the host country are not compensated for in addition to the fixed sum of the grant.

Medical	Supplemental accident and sickness health benefits coverage is provided as part of the Fulbright award. This health benefit policy is not all-purpose health insurance and is not intended to replace any insurance a participant may already have.
	ETAs who become ill while abroad may contact the nearest US embassy or consulate for a list of local doctors, dentists, medical specialists and other sources of medical information.
Insurance	See above
Other support	ETAs are advised to establish a support network with one another and encouraged to maintain support systems with family and friends at home.
Holidays	During breaks or normal holiday periods, grantees may leave the host country for a total of 14 days, including weekends and travel days, subject to advance approval by the Fulbright Commission or US Embassy in the host country and the grantee's host institution. Grantees may not leave the host country for other periods without prior approval.
	Any travel conducted outside of the primary grant location but within the host country must also be approved and restricted to guidelines provided by the Cultural Affairs Officer or appropriate officer at the post.
	In the case of extraordinary medical or personal emergency, the grantee can either use part or all of the 14 days' leave described above or take up to 14 days' unpaid leave. In extenuating circumstances, a maximum of six months' emergency leave can be considered for grant suspension.

Native-speaking English Teacher (NET) Scheme
Location	Hong Kong
Entry criteria	Applicants must be native speakers of English (or possess native-speaker competence).
	Preference is given to applicants with experience in teaching English as a second/foreign language. For appointment in special schools, preference is given to applicants who have special education training and/or experience in teaching students with special educational needs.
	Candidates can apply to participate in the PNET (primary) or SNET (secondary) branches of the programme.
	Appointment is considered according to a given order of priority, with five categories. The highest category requires:
	■ A Bachelor's degree in English Language or English Literature or English Studies or Linguistics or a Modern Language (OR for SNETs a Bachelor of Education degree, major in English or a modern language but not Primary Education specialism) from a Hong Kong university or equivalent
	 A recognised teacher-training qualification in primary education (PNETs) or a Postgraduate Diploma in Education majoring in English or equivalent (SNETs)
	■ A Teaching of English as a Foreign Language or a Second Language (TEFL/TESL) qualification at least at certificate level, or an equivalent course of study recognised by EDB (PNETs), or at least at the diploma level, or equivalent (SNETs)
	 At least one year's postgraduate experience of teaching English (preferably as a second or foreign language) at secondary level or above (SNETs)
	All categories require at least:
	 A Bachelor's degree (apart from Category 5 for PNETs, which requires a recognised teacher's certificate obtained after at least two years' full-time study or equivalent) A TEFL/TESL qualification
	 And, for SNETs, at least one year's postgraduate English teaching experience, preferably as a second/foreign language
	Non-local qualifications need to be assessed by the Hong Kong Council for Accreditation of Academic and Vocational Qualifications (HKCAAVQ).
Selection process	Applications must be submitted by post or fax to the NET Administration Team at the Education Bureau (EDB) by the end of January (unless applying via a Government agent).
	Within eight weeks selected candidates are invited to an interview and a written test. Candidates are notified of results within four weeks.
	Successful candidates are referred to the Hong Kong Council for Accreditation of Academic and Vocational Qualifications (HKCAAVQ) for qualifications assessment. If these meet the requirements, candidates are put in the EDB's central pool.
	Schools contact the candidate directly for interviews. Appointment is not guaranteed.
Length of contract	Two-year contract basis, normally commencing mid-August
Possibility for renewal	Yes. Encouraged: see retention incentive below
Early termination	On giving the school one month's notice in writing or one month's salary in lieu of notice, a NET who resigns within the first 12 months of his or her contract is required to refund the school the costs of passage and any baggage allowance.
Institutions	PNET: primary school (6–11) SNET: secondary school (12–18) Schools for students with special educational needs

Benefits	■ A gratuity of 15 per cent (less the amount of employers' contribution to the Mandatory Provident Fund (MPF) Scheme) is granted if the NET's performance and conduct during the entire period of service is satisfactory.
	 NETs who are in the third and fourth years of continuous service can apply for a retention incentive of an additional five per cent of their current base salary for the third and fourth years of service.
	 NETs who are in the fifth year of continuous service onwards are eligible to apply for a retention incentive of ten per cent on top of their current base salary for the fifth year of service onwards.
	Passage, baggage, medical allowances and a special allowance per month are provided for appointees whose normal place of residence is established as outside Hong Kong.
	Unless exemptions apply, the school will arrange to make contributions to a Mandatory Provident Fund on behalf of the NET, with the employee's contribution to be deducted from his or her salary.
Outlay	Candidates cover the cost of:
	■ Required medical examinations (including a chest X-ray)
	■ Employment visa applications
	■ All costs incurred attending interview(s) at the EDB or school(s)
Role/ responsibilities	Undertake teaching duties and try out good teaching models/practices related to the learning, teaching and assessment of English.
	 Organise and conduct extra-curricular activities related to English learning and teaching, such as school-based English day camps, storytelling activities, drama, songs, verse speaking, extensive reading, etc.
	Provide support for the English panel, including school-based curriculum development and professional development.
	■ Prepare and develop learning/teaching materials.
	Act as an adviser on language teaching and learning and as a language resource.
Contact hours	PNETs teach at either Whole Day schools or Bi-sessional schools. Whole Day schools run from 8 a.m.–3.30 p.m; Bi-sessional Schools run from 7.30 a.m.–1 p.m. and 1.30 p.m.–6 p.m.
	SNETs usually work 8 a.m.–3.30 p.m, with extra-curricular activities until around 5 p.m.
	Schools may use a six-day or seven-day timetable and may change the sequence of cycle days from time to time in order to accommodate special events and activities.
	Classes usually last between 30 and 45 minutes. There may be double or even triple periods in older groups.
	All NETs are required to work during school hours, after school hours and occasionally at weekends, to perform duties within or outside schools.
Induction	In school
Training	Centralised Professional Development courses, seminars or workshops on topics such as phonics, storytelling, shared reading, poetry writing and catering for learner diversity are provided to all primary English teachers, including PNETs, by the Advisory Teaching Team.
Mentoring/ support	In primary schools, an experienced school English teacher (SET) is assigned to work in partnership with the PNET. The SET acts as a bridge between the PNET and the school management and other English teachers.
	A government-supported Advisory Teaching Team (ATT), comprising NETs and local English teachers, designs and operates regular staff development programmes for PNETs and SETs, and conducts school development visits to monitor the deployment of PNETs in individual schools.
	In secondary schools, a Regional NET Co-ordinating Team (RNCT) nurtures networks of teachers and advises on NET deployment.
Management	NETs sign contracts directly with the aided primary or secondary school they are matched with.
-4	If they are matched with a government school, their employer is EDB.
structure	in they are materied with a government solices, their employer is 255.

Medical	Medical allowance is provided to reimburse the costs of medical insurance of up to a limited amount.
	There is a comprehensive public health system in Hong Kong and emergency treatment, non- emergency hospital treatment and GP consultations carry only a nominal cost.
Insurance	See above for medical insurance.
Other support	NESTA (Native English Speaking Teachers' Association) organises a wide range of activities, including monthly meetings, member support, liaison with the Education Bureau, social events, a debating competition and professional development days.
Holidays	It is expected that teachers receive at least four consecutive weeks of holiday during the summer but this may vary.
	Schools have some flexibility over the number and distribution of school days and school holidays to suit school-specific requirements.
	Teachers may be required to perform duties in school holidays.

Selection On average, the process from application to invitation takes from six to 12 months. process To apply, the following items need to be submitted: ■ A completed application form, which includes two essays, three references, employment history, CV, a list of community and volunteer activities, educational background and practical skills information ■ A copy of your college transcripts unless, generally, the applicant has ten years' applicable professional experience (an unofficial copy of an official transcript is acceptable) ■ Outstanding student loan, mortgage or other financial obligation information ■ Documentation on outstanding legal obligations ■ A completed Health History Form Interview – Applicants are usually contacted within two weeks of an initial review of the application. Potentially qualified applicants are interviewed after all application materials, including references, have been submitted. Nomination – If qualified and if there are open positions, applicants are nominated to serve in a general work area with a tentative departure date. Applicants may need to provide additional medical information before they can be nominated for a specific programme. After nomination, fingerprint cards and a National Agency Checklist form are sent out and must be completed and returned to the Peace Corps before the next steps of the process can begin. Medical, Legal, Suitability and Competitive Reviews – Post-nomination, applications are reviewed for eligibility based on the Peace Corps' legal guidelines. Medically pre-qualified and legally cleared applicants are then evaluated by a Peace Corps placement officer, who assesses their suitability and skills in comparison to other candidates. Invitation – Selected candidates will receive an invitation in writing for a specific country and be provided with a detailed job description. The electronic invitation letter includes the date of departure, the programme job assignment and links to a welcome packet with details about the country of assignment (the Welcome Book) and a Volunteer Handbook. If the invitation to serve as a Volunteer is accepted, more information is provided about the host country and pre-service orientation training and departure. Final Medical Clearance – After the invitation is accepted, and 60 days prior to departure, applicants are required to complete a physical and dental examination. Preparation for Departure – The Peace Corps travel office will issue an electronic ticket for travel to the pre-service orientation site. Immediately prior to departure for the country of assignment, Peace Corps 'trainees' meet in the US to prepare for their Volunteer service. Length of 27 months contract Possibility for Returned Peace Corps Volunteers who have successfully completed their service can be placed renewal on highly technical, shorter-term placements (three months to one year) in specific countries via the Peace Corps Response programme. Early Peace Corps will pay transportation costs for immediate and direct travel to the early terminating termination volunteer's home; otherwise travel costs are to be covered by the volunteer.

Induction	A brief pre-departure orientation in the US
Training	Two to three months of training in-country, including intensive instruction in the local language. Volunteers also learn technical skills related to their jobs and become familiar with the local culture and with issues related to their safety and wellbeing. During this period, most Volunteers live with host families to fully immerse themselves in the new culture.
	Over the next 24 months of service, Volunteers are provided with regular opportunities to reinforce and develop their skills.
Mentoring/ support	At each Peace Corps post there is a Country Director responsible for the safety and security of Volunteers and Programme Managers who work to ensure Volunteers integrate successfully. Volunteers are visited periodically by Peace Corps Programme Managers and medical staff to monitor their site assignments.
Management structure	Volunteers work within the structure of the organisation they are assigned to. Peace Corps Programme Managers oversee the management of projects, including the support and performance of Volunteers, and communicate with Peace Corps Headquarters.
Accommodation	Provided. Volunteer housing accommodation varies greatly (and can, for example, include living with a host family) but must meet the Peace Corps' standards for safety and suitability.

Medical	Full medical insurance during service covers primary care, hospitalisation, medical evacuation, all prescriptions including birth control and dental care needs.
	At each post there is a Peace Corps Medical Officer who provides primary care and is available 24/7 for emergencies.
Insurance	Volunteers are covered by workers' compensation for injuries incurred during their period of service.
Other support	The Peace Corps Counselling and Outreach Unit (COU) has a 24-hour duty officer available for family members needing to contact their Volunteer in an emergency.
	A readjustment allowance is provided on completion of service. There is also other transition and job support and social networking after service.
Holidays	Two vacation days per month of service – a total of 48 days over two years
