

Larissa Albano

Christmas: An idea for the BYOD (Bring Your Own Device) class

Technology can make a big difference when teaching pre-teens and teens. For that reason I create a flipped video to share the joy of giving at Christmas.

This activity is aimed at developing students' awareness about functional language used in a particular context.

Introducing the activity

Ask your students the following questions.

- 1) What feelings do you associate with Christmas?
- 2) What memories do you have about Christmas?

Students answer the questions in pairs and then you can have some feedback with the whole class.

Send this link to your students' mobile devices.

www.educanon.com/public/42784/144763?cn=s

Tell them they are going to watch a commercial that shows two animals during Christmas time.

Underline that the video will stop from time to time and they have to choose what the animals would say in that situation.